

2005 Online AVLN Conference: Call for Participation

Global Collaboration for Quality Christian Education

✚ Call for Presentations

Presentations will take the form of papers, websites written up as a workshop or presentation, or stand-alone PowerPoints. If convenient and desired, presenters may also present via a live event such as a chat, webinar or videoconference. These presentations will also be discussed asynchronously during the four days of the conference.

✚ Call for Working Groups

The asynchronous discussion strands will each have two facilitators from two different institutions to promote and model collaboration. The facilitators will encourage discussion of big questions for that strand as well as facilitate discussion of the presentations within that strand.

Currently planned strands include:

- Collaboration 101: A Systems Approach to Adventist Education
- LEAP: College Courses for Advanced High School Students
- Show 'n' Tell: Adventist Distance Education Worldwide
- Integrating Faith and Learning Online
- Research on Online Learning
- Online Course Development
- Desire2Learn Training

Additional topics can be proposed by working groups from multiple institutions.

✚ Call for Volunteers

To make this online conference a success, we need live chat facilitators with chat experience. We also need volunteers to staff a 24/7 help desk for timezones around the world.

✚ Complete Online Form

To participate in any of these ways, please complete the Call for Participation form online at www.avln.org by April 15, 2005.

AVLN's First
Totally Online
Conference!
May 9-12, 2005

Combination format of asynchronous
discussion,
synchronous online
events, and local face-to-face sessions.

